Please do not use the title “abstract” or use a separate page for your abstract. Rather, place your abstract double spaced below the final author of the article. Your abstract, like the rest of your paper, should be single spaced. You may also note that the title is in 16 font. The rest of the paper is in 12 font. Right below the abstract, you are asked to list 2-5 keywords for your paper. Please bold “Keywords.” The keywords should be italics.

Keywords: Depth psychology, submission guidelines, keywords.

After triple spacing down, you may begin your paper. Remember to single space your paper throughout. The only time you will need to double space is before an after a quote, table, figure, or a section heading. For example, pretend this is a quote:

You will still indent your long quotes one-half inch on the left side only. Double space before and after your quote. You will also double space before and after any table and figure that you may use in your paper. Remember, long quotes are any quote that is 40-words or longer. (Reference, 2004)

Once you’ve completed your paper, you may move right into your reference section without beginning a new page. Just double space before and after your “Reference” header. Good luck with your submission.
